

Your Practical Guide to ... Road Accidents

A road traffic accident can have a major impact on your life. By instructing our experts to help you, you can be sure that you will be in safe hands.

After a Road Accident you should:

- Obtain the name, address and contact details of the other person along with details of their insurance company and policy details.
- Make a note of the other person's vehicle details and registration number.
- Obtain full details of any witnesses – they will be essential in proving your case.
- Take photographs of the scene. If possible include something that will help to scale and date the accident (such as a newspaper with a date on it).
- If you are injured, report the accident to the police and do not move the vehicles until they arrive.

Seek Treatment:

- If you are injured, seek medical advice immediately. Either visit your Doctor, or in more serious cases the local Hospital. Your medical records will be an important part of your claim.

Can I claim?

Our specialist personal injury lawyers will provide you with free initial advice on your compensation claim and with our No Win No Fee agreements there's no financial risk to you if your claim is unsuccessful.*

In most cases you can claim if:

- Someone else was to blame for your injuries (for example, you were hit in the rear by another vehicle, or you were a pedestrian or passenger involved in an accident).
- The accident happened within the last three years.
